Current Blind Appeal Not Authorized By Institute

The canvassing of funds, purported to be in aid of the blind, which has been carried on in Alberta, is not conducted by The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Mr. R. V. Hewlett, Executive Officer for the Southern District of C.N.I.B. said today.

Mr. Hewlett said that numerous inquiries have been received at C.N.I.B. headquarters during the past weeks. Throughout Central and Southern Alberta, the C.N.I.B. holds its annual campaign in the fall, and it is not at present soliciting funds from the public.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind is the only service organization in Alberta which has service centres in operation and which is engaged in extending a broad program of services to all blind people regardless of age, race, color or creed. The Alberta Division of The Canadian Council of the Blind, which works in close co-operation with the C.N.I.B., at no time appeals directly to the public for funds.

All citizens are advised by Mr. Hewlett to inquire fully into what they are being asked to support before contributing to any canvass said to be in aid of the blind, regardless of what organization is conducting the appeal.

Has Spring Arrived?

Though mid-April temperatures in Alberta did hover around the zero mark, the calendar shows that spring has arrived. And some hardy strains of migratory birds have arrived too. Besides all this, reports have come in to us of definite signs of spring in other localities on this continent.

In Miami, Florida unseasonably warm weather forced the mercury up to 83 degrees last week. Usually, they tell us, it seldom goes over 80 in April.

There are other indications. One of the most infallible is the rebellion of the animal kingdom against the ties that bind, the habits and tedium of the daily routine.

In Detroit, a bus driver has revolted. He grew tired of critiques of his technique, and walked away. He told his passengers, mostly women, that the bus was theirs to do with as they pleased.

In Philadelphia, a postman gave in to a sternly suppressed desire. He locked two children in one of those big green storage boxes. He explained to his superiors that the children had been interfering with his mail sorting for a long time, and this was their punishment.

In New York a delivery horse fled the Washington Market, a regular stop for years. He was found hours later inspecting another part of town.

Spring is the season for runaways, for last-minute filing of income-tax returns, for vacant moments when we dream of a warm summer day and a fishing line. The news as well as nature prove spring is definitely here.

A Major Medical Discovery

A vaccine, designed to provide immunity against all three types of virus causing infantile paralysis, has produced favorable results in the first controlled test on six children it was announced late in October. The tests were carried out at the John Hopkins University polio laboratory by Dr. Howard A. Howe.

The first test was made with chimpanzees, which were given the same amount of vaccine six children were later given. The chimpanzees developed immunity agents known as antibodies, in their blood and the children developed the same antibodies in comparable form.

These antibodies possess the ability to neutralize three types of virus responsible for human polio—Lansing, Leon and Brunhilde. The vaccine holds out tremendous promise, although Dr. Howe emphasizes that the tests are still in the relative preliminary stages and that more extensive laboratory work is necessary before the vaccine could be made available for general use, or could be proved absolutely reliable in all circumstances.

Despite this sensible statement, the new vaccine offers the greatest hope in the fight against polio in the entire history of the human battle against the dreaded disease. The perfection of the vaccine must stand as a major triumph in the field of medicine, perhaps the greatest, or certainly one of the greatest, achieved in the year 1952.

Men Of Valor

Lying on his back, looking upward, Michelangelo painted 343 figures over a space of ten thousand square feet on the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel in Rome. Reflect on the fortitude required for this magnificent achievement. Day after day for more than four years he worked alone, with only the help of laborers. When the scaffolding was removed, the Pope, the experts and the people alike gazed upward in amazement and awe.

Notes and Comment

The failure of the rice and wheat crops in the Bombay province of India has resulted in severe famine in that area. About one-quarter of the state's 36 million people are affected by the drouth and food shortage.

Soil Doctors

A specialized group of scientists has one of the most important tasks in Canada today—that of looking after the health of our soil. By diagnosing soil ailments and prescribing treatment, these soil chemists have a big hand in the maintenance of national health by helping keep the productivity of the land at a maximum.

It took many centuries for man to realize that growing crops extracted plant foods from the soil; that when crops were harvested or eaten by livestock, these nutrients were lost to the soil; that in order to harvest a vigorous crop from the same soil, plant foods such as nitrogen, phosphorous, potassium, calcium and magnesium had to be placed back.

To determine the identity and amount of foods in which soil is deficient, a soil test at least every three years has become almost an essential part of modern farm practice. Both federal and provincial departments of agriculture and industrial firms like Canadian Industries Limited, have soil testing laboratories, the services of which are available to farmers without charge.

Agriculturists whose crops are not thrifty under average weather conditions no longer need to grope in the dark for reasons and cures for such unthriftness. They should avail themselves of the free soil testing services at their disposal as quickly as possible. After all, when a person is sick he or she goes to a medical doctor. When a soil is sick it, too, should be examined — by a soil "doctor".

Who Is Debt Free?

(An Editorial in the Peace River Gazette)

Probably we should feel a sense of satisfaction when we read the report of provincial treasury department officials to the effect that Alberta was technically debt free, that our cash assets exceeded our liabilities. This is a noteworthy achievement in private and business effort but is doubly so in the realm of government. We should be thankful we are not head over heels in debt, as are some provinces.

But we could not become over enthusiastic because a week ago we attended the annual meeting of the Town of Peace River. At that meeting we learned the town was faced with an increasing burden of school and hospital taxes. Faced with a problem child, the utility system, the town had to sink a lot of current tax money in the project and could not meet all requisitions to date.

At this same meeting we learned the provincial government made grants for various reasons totalling about $9,000, but at the same time also learned the government does not pay taxes on government buildings. In the case of the town this would amount to a sizeable sum each year, for at a value of $300,000 on the new government building, at a tax rate of 75 mills the annual tax would be $2,250, but this was not or will not be paid by the provincial government property held within boundaries of the town and we find this munificent government did not do so well by us with the large grant.

Other towns and municipalities are faced with the same problem to a varying degree, and in some instances the debenture debt is becoming exceedingly heavy.

Therefore how can we derive much satisfaction when we learn the provincial government is out of debt while municipalities are going in the opposite direction?

We cannot deny the government's share of school, hospital and other services has been increased but it is becoming apparent the proportion is still too small. The provincial government is deriving a lot of revenue directly and indirectly from all parts of the province and is not sharing it as it should, apparently preferring to make a good showing in the financial statement before thinking of other aspects of the province's financial situation.

We are in favor of government operating on an even financial keel, but we do not think this is the case in Alberta today, where the provincial debt has been liquidated and the municipal debt has steadily increased. Let us hope the situation is faced realistically by our legislators in the forthcoming session.

GRAIN HANDLERS' STRIKE

The strike of 278 grain workers in the terminal elevators in Vancouver and New Westminster has prevented the export of some 16 million bushels of Alberta wheat which normally would have passed through the elevators in the last eight weeks. The bulk of this wheat is still in the granaries or country elevators and will remain there until the strike is settled.

By virtue of the freight rate differentials between Vancouver and Port Arthur (which is 6 cents per hundred at Edmonton), and the large crop, ninety per cent of Alberta grain flows through the Pacific coast terminals, hence the vital importance of ending the strike quickly.

The Union is asking for a 12½ cents per hour increase in wages and for certain conditions of work termed "fringe benefits", which include a 10 cents per hour dust premium for certain very dirty jobs; two additional paid holidays; 5 cents per hour extra for the night shift; double time for work done on Sundays, and classification of jobs. The basic wage rate is now $1.50 per hour for a 40-hour week.

The Union and the Grain Companies submitted the dispute to a Conciliation Board headed by Professor Crumb of the University of British Columbia. This tribunal recommended that the Union receive the fringe benefits, but recommended against a wage increase.

The Union accepted the majority report of the Board on all points except wages, and suggested that further talks be held between the Union and companies on wages.

The companies rejected the entire report of the Board and refused to make any changes in the 1952 agreement. Because of the refusal of the companies to negotiate, the strike of February 16 resulted.

Since the strike started, there has been no direct negotiations between the companies and the Union except two meetings called by a Federal Government Conciliator some three weeks ago. The companies have offered three fringe benefits, but have not budged on the wage question.

The Union has offered to compromise on both wages and fringe benefits and, in fact, by accepting the Report of the Conciliation Board, gave up a number of important requests for conditions of work.

The cost to the companies of the wage increase and fringe benefits requested amounts to approximately $100,000 per annum. Enjoying the most prosperous years in their history, they do not plead inability to pay.

The companies simply state that their employees are not entitled to a wage increase or to the fringe benefits. The Union believes that its members should share in the prosperity of the companies as well as in their adversity.

The cost of the strike to the economy of Western Canada can be counted in millions of dollars. At the present time, wheat is being shipped from Alberta points to Port Arthur-Fort William at an extra freight cost of $72.00 per car. This extra freight will be paid by the farmers. The absurdity of this can be realized as the excess freight on 1,500 cars would more than pay for the increases asked by the grain workers.

The Union feels that with compromises on both sides, the strike can be settled very quickly and the wheat from Alberta farms will move to the world market.

We are ready and willing to sit down with the companies and reach a settlement at the earliest opportunity.

DOUGLAS NEWELL,
Secretary,
Grain Workers' Union.

WE'RE NOT COMMIES

When your paper takes ads for the L.P.P., and doesn't offer a rebuttal to its lies it looks to me you are fostering the thin edge of Communism.

If we are to have free speech, we want the truth, not half truths and outright lies.

The President of the U.S. was elected by the majority of the U.S. people and is a man trying for peace. The L.P.P. representative also put forth the Financiers bogey, when men like Chas. Wilson have to sell his holdings in the G.M.C. before he could serve his country. These half-truths are injurious to people who don't follow world affairs and receive your sheet only.

When our sons shed their blood to maintain peace and prevent world-wide dictatorship we are poor souls indeed if we don't back them up here.

LETTERS TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa:

I am fifteen years old and have three sisters and four brothers.

My mother just fusses all of the time and for everything I do. She tells me to cook and, when I do, she fusses. I just don't know what to do.

I don't want to say anything back to her. Will you please tell me what to do?

J.T.P.

Answer:

Just try to be patient and do the best you can. Your mother is probably over-worked and worried with all the things she has on her mind and doesn't realize how miserable she is making you by her complaints.

It will take a lot of will-power and goodness on your part but try not to get angry with her and tell her that you are sorry that what you have done doesn't please her and that you will try to do what she wishes. I feel sure that life will be a little pleasanter for you both if you do.

It doesn't take many years for children to grow into men and women and it is a pity that so many mothers lose this opportunity of drawing their children closer to them by being sympathetic and understanding.

Young people in their teens are unpredictable and oftentimes careless but they get through this stage eventually. It helps a great deal if some of their faults are overlooked.

In your case, J. T., be as sweet to your mother as you can. Love begets love and if you do what you can to please your mother, it will pay off sooner or later.

Louisa,

Dear Louisa:

My husband makes a small salary and I have to work very hard at home.

His work is fairly easy but he thinks that he should sit down and let me care for the children fix dinner and clean up at night. I am so tired, I can hardly go. What do you think of this?

Answer

G.M.

I think that taking care of the home is a woman's job but I do think that if that job becomes unusually hard, and if the husband cannot afford to hire help for his wife, he should certainly lend her a helping hand.

After all, they are his children as much as hers and surely, he should take care of them while she is busy with the dinner or cleaning up.

The boys and men of today are much better about helping with the household tasks than they were a generation ago, however, and I think it makes a couple feel closer together than they would, otherwise.

When a man helps with his children, he understands them better and they love him more than they would if he leaves them entirely to the mother.

I do not think that a man who works very hard outside of the home should be expected to come home and take up the work that a lazy wife has neglected to do. She should try to systematize her housekeeping so that the work doesn't pile up to greet a tired man at the end of the day.

FUA Policy To Advance Interests Of Farmers

OLDS—"The policy of the Farmers' Union of Alberta is to advance the interests of the people on the land," stated Henry Young of Millet, president of the FUA, in an address to the 140 members attending the first FUA Leadership Course in Alberta at the Olds School of Agriculture. "The aims are to see that the farmers get a fair share of the national income; to correct the disparity at present existing between living standards in town and country; to get parity for agriculture."

"To accomplish this, country people need to take a more active interest in both local and national questions which affect their welfare. Farmers should insist on taking their part in the agencies through which agricultural products are marketed. If farmers want parity they must be prepared to work for it."

Instruction and workshops in public speaking were conducted by Doug Thornton of the FUA Co-operative in Calgary; S. Hillerud of the extension department of the University of Alberta; W. W. Wagler, Alberta Wheat Pool, Lethbridge; D. Campbell, of the department of extension, University of Alberta. Mrs. J. Harrold of Edmonton lectured on group technique. Other workshops stressed duties of president, vice-president, secretary, and committees. Gordon R. S. Hawkins, from the extension branch of the U. of A., enlarged on the art of group discussion. Lt. Col. E. W. Cormack, department of extension, University of Alberta, dealt

AN AGENT WANTED IN EVERY DISTRICT

Wants Continuation Of CBC Controls

By L. W. Newcombe

In his closing address on the budget, Mr. Manning speaking on the $50,000 appropriation, used these words, "This appropriation for agricultural broadcasts, certainly is not going to be used in the same manner as the C.B.C. The C.B.C. has been primarily, as far as its so-called free service is concerned, a political propaganda organ for the government of Canada." A more flagrant disregard of truth or fairness can hardly be imagined, but coming from the Premier, such words are inexcusable.

Mr. Manning knows well that the C.B.C. has been most fair in apportioning its free time for election broadcasts, justly and impartially and after full consultation and agreement with the leaders of the different political parties. The regulations state (2) "Each station shall allocate time for political broadcasts as fairly as possible between the different parties or candidate desiring to purchase or obtain time for such broadcasts". The Corporation insists that all stations carry out this policy.

If Mr. Manning refers to the different commentators used on the C.B.C. then he is a non-listener, or, wilfully perverting the facts. The panel of speakers are of the best available and are permitted free and independent expression of facts or opinions as they see them. On Sunday James Minifie, Woodworth, McGahey, etc. Other times we hear, Kenneth Harris, Geo. Ferguson, Paul Hoffman, Harvey Dickie, Matthew Halton, Basil Dean, Burton Keirstead, Michael Barkway Baldwin, and so on. Sometimes we do not agree with their conclusions, but at least with the C.B.C. we are not denied the sharing of speakers of different views. Regarding this, the regulations state, (7) "It is not the intention of the Corporation to restrict freedom of speech, nor the fair presentation of controversial material. On the contrary the policy is to encourage the fair presentation of controversial questions".

Radio and Television have become important educational agencies, perhaps equal to the schools in some respects and certainly most Canadians prefer, and are concerned that they be kept under public control and as free from commercial or advertisers control as possible. We have observed how the American people have been led around by their bait by the abuse of this modern discovery. The 242 air channels set aside in the U.S. for education, out of the 2000 are mostly unused because television is developed to make money for the sponsors and not as a public service. The present attempt to limit the authority and work of the C.B.C. if successful must inevitably lower the high standards set by our own institution in the interests of the moneychangers who would exploit the air waves for private gain. The people of Canada will stand firm against any moves of this kind.

Carl Berg Addressees: Fort Lions Club

FORT SASKATCHEWAN—The Men's Club of Fort Saskatchewan held their last meeting of the winter season in the basement hall of the United Church. About 35 members sat down to a sumptuous dinner prepared by stewards Stuart Palmer and Charles Galloway. Some time later President Percy Galloway introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Carl Berg of the Canadian Congress of Labor. Mr. Berg traced the history of the trade union movement in Canada from its inception to the present day. He stated that all matters of public concern had to come before the eye of public opinion before they were actually placed on the Statute Book and that labor legislation had contributed very largely to the high standard of living. Very soon he expected to be on his way to Geneva, Switzerland, to attend the International Labor Organization as one of Canada's delegates, where he would meet with labor representatives from all parts of the world, including a few from behind the Iron Curtain. The discussions at Geneva would tend to co-ordinate labor relations internationally. Finally he stated that at the conclusion of the convention at Geneva he would leave for Stockholm as a delegate to a

FWUA Holds Monthly Meeting

CROSSFIELD—On April 8th the FWUA held its monthly meeting in the church parlor, with Mrs. Vera Aldred officiating, and 18 members present. The discussions were many and varied, including suggestions of souvenirs to represent Alberta at the Associated Country Women of the World Convention. Corsages made of nylon or wood fibre to represent the wild rose emblem of Alberta was suggested.

A very enjoyable and educational demonstration was given by Mrs. Grace Budgeon on the making of plaster of paris plaques and the painting of same. The meeting adjourned and refreshments were served.

Thieves Caught Red-Handed

GROSSFIELD—Two Cardons in a Calgary jail, where a few days ago were received 6 months ago, have been before the court. They were attempting to hook up to their tractor to pull it out of a mud hole near his home and on attempting to hook it up to his tractor slipped back and pinned him to the truck. Besides broken ribs and torn ligaments, there is a possibility of internal injuries.

Well Known Farmer Injured In Accident

PARTRIDGE HILLS—It is with regret we report a serious accident to James Allanach of Partridge Hills last week. Apparently his light truck became mired in a mud hole near his home and on attempting to hook it up to his tractor to pull it out, the tractor slipped back and pinned him to the truck. Besides broken ribs and torn ligaments, there is a possibility of internal injuries.

Should A Person Support Local Sport?

By Jack Lee

Nearly all young people are sports minded and in this way they not only participate, but also learn to play games well.

It is from local home town teams that professional hockey, baseball and football players are chosen.

People support their own players and all enjoy the privilege of sportsmanship.

Local people are the backbone of any venture and certainly support home talent.

In no other sports is competition so keen and wholesome.

Therefore good people of Crossfield let us unite more socially and choose the young that are worth our united efforts. Push a little harder and offer our moral as well as our financial assistance to the youth of today who will be your citizens of tomorrow. It takes united effort to achieve success, so boost more, condemn less and watch for results.
